POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The 1940 census gave California a population of 6,885,000 civilians and 22,400 in the armed forces. Today, the total of these two categories is well in excess of 8 million and still rising!

These newcomers, too, are spenders. They need more laundry work, for instance. They eat more restaurant meals. They are on the move continually — to and from their daily jobs, hunting better jobs and better housing, going on week-ends, or traveling to distant points on ships and trains.

And they've upped the state's food consumption nearly fifty per cent.

As a consequence, California is suffering from such an acute attack of growing pains that the state's continued all-out participation in the war effort is seriously threatened, unless practical steps are speedily taken to relieve the situation!

Boiled down to essentials, that is what the Senate committee on Economic Planning — composed of Attorney General Robert W. Kenny and Congressman John Phillips, both former members of the State Senate — has reported to the Legislature after months of exhaustive study.

Even without any national shortages of food, labor, goods and transport, reports the committee, it would have been extremely difficult for California to adjust its economy to serve the needs of so many new people in two and one-half years. And with rationing, priorities, price ceilings, the rubber shortage and dim-outs, the job has become almost impossible.

The committee issues a stern warning that California even with a normal farm labor supply, could not produce enough farm products to take care of the 50 per cent increase in the state's food consumption, and the government's quota for lend-lease and the army. And it emphasizes that California farm labor has been drained away by the military services and by war factories, and that California farmers can't get desperately needed equipment. The federal government, says the committee, simply must take steps to assure farmers their essential manpower and equipment, if chaos is to be averted.

The most ominous news on the transportation front, reports the committee, is the delay in the synthetic rubber program of the federal government. Highway carriers, in California, it finds, handle two-thirds of the total value of intra-state freight business — and California railroads, with the present abnormal demands for trains for movement of troops and military equipment in interstate commerce, can't fill the gap if truck facilities fail for

EARL WALTRIP IS NOW IN U. S. ARMY

Earl Waltrip, son of Mrs. Alice Waltrip, left for Monterey to begin army training Friday, Jan. 29. He graduated from Campbell High school in 1941 and was married to Miss Alice Foster last year.

He has been employed for some time by the Golden State Dairy Products company and last Wednesday evening was tendered a going away stag party by fellow workers at the home of Lloyd Hill in Los Altos.

Pfc. James Fablinger, U. S. Marine, stationed at Treasure Island was a visitor in Campbell over the week-end.

lack of tires. This problem, too, is aggravated, the committee reports, by the fact that the present 35-mile speed limit is not practical for trucks and buses, and actually is causing a waste of rubber and transport vehicles. The committee then suggests that the Office of Defense Transportation confer with the State Railroad Commission regarding modification of the 35-mile speed limit for commercial vehicles.

He forecast a migration into the area over a period of years. He referred to this as a pioneering enterprise where new roads and towns will develop. At present much of the surrounding territory is desert land, but with good soil, needing only water. There are 2½ million acres available for development. TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

Perhaps Abraham Lincoln was the first real internationalist! His great heart understood that "all men are created equal." However small the present conceptions of such a brotherhood may be, this ideal is in the vanguard of our global war.

On February 12, 1943 (our nation will be remembering Abraham Lincoln more understandingly than ever before. Perhaps we shall quote to ourselves the first words of his ageless speech at Gettysburg: "Four score and seven years ago today, our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Because we are that "new nation," we are called upon to participate in a struggle for the end of world wide slavery—a slavery far more terrible than that from which Lincoln freed the United States. For slavery of the mind—in which people may not dare to think according to the dictates of conscience—is the ultimate slavery.

Our nation, among all those on earth, was conceived in ideals. Here men sought freedom of worship, revolting from the dictates of church as a weapon of state. This ideal, with its power to raise up a mighty nation, will find strength to crush to powder the claims of oppression.

Before the war, a statue of Lincoln stood in the Square near the House of Parliament in London—the only American statesman to be so honored. Why not George Washington, one might ask, especially since he fought for the establishment of the nation? Yet splendid as was his achievement, it paled, in the eyes of men, before the great scope—even the internationalism—of Lincoln's view. For Lincoln saw a world in which right was might and wherein all men could partake of the rights of individual freedom. No other basis for permanent peace exists.

CASABLANCA CONFERENCE

There is much of history in the news these days. School children of future generations will undoubtedly come to a chapter in their history texts, entitled "Casablanca Conference," and there will be written the full story of the dramatic, secret, ten-day meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in a villa by the sea in French Morocco, where the grand strategy of the final phase of World War II was mapped and agreed upon by the leaders of the United States and Great Britain.

Even teen-age youngsters, day-dreaming about the opening of the trout season, and tow-headed girls with no great reverence for historical dates and occasions, will probably like that chapter in their history books. For it was staged by two men with a spectacular flair for showmanship as well as leadership, and it will still have the pull of a great drama long after the years have yellowed it.

We who are living this chapter in history cannot know its full significance until the curtain goes up for the final act, because military plans revealed to us now might also be revealed to our enemies. Our present information is very sketchy. Whether Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek participated in the conference, by radio, telephone or cable; whether representatives were there of Italy and Finland, seeking a separate peace for their unhappy countries; whether a decision was reached to carry the war to Hitler on the continent, and whether bombing missions were determined upon which will one day flatten Tokyo and knock Japan out of the war—these are still unpublished pages in the drama. We do know that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill served notice that "unconditional surrender" of the Axis powers is the Allied aim and objective and thereby spiked even before it began, Hitler's projected "peace offensive." For the rest, we must wait, but probably not for long. The warning bell has rung and the curtain is about to go up on the final act of World War II.

GROW AND CAN!

The words "grow and can" will have ever increasing importance to the welfare of our families and country. Food Administrator Wickard last week began a national "Victory Garden" drive to encourage home-grown vegetables. Since home canned goods will not be counted in a household's ration allotment, the inducements are large!

Digging in the soil always has been one of the most wholesome occupations. Many "big business men" from the city, keep a plot of ground in the country where they can potter around in spare time. Many otherwise busy women have gone in for flowers in a really big way, especially in California where the climate encourages quick and showy charm.

Perhaps now we can turn these talents into a practical food-producing effort, and do with a few flowers for a border, while we change over to the less romantic, but now more essential business of growing vegetables.

"LAST CALL"

Deadline for renewal of auto licenses is midnight, February 4! The Department of Motor Vehicles says some misapprehension exists as to the renewal period for vehicle licenses. The period has not been extended and double fee levies will be made for delinquents.

Although we run our cars so much less, relatively few have been put away for the duration and the business of getting out the 1943 tabs will be about as usual. No tabs will be given out over the counter this year. All will be mailed, so if you have moved, make a

O.P.A. Mass Meeting to be Held for Grocers

An O. P. A. mass meeting for grocers and meat dealers, wholesale and retail for Santa Clara county, sponsored by the Central Coast Counties Association of Retail Grocers, Inc., will be held Sunday, Feb. 7 at 2 p. m. in the Roosevelt Jr. High school in San Jose.

The subjects to be considered will deal with operation of stores under the "point rationing" system and the new "ration banking."

The Rationing Plan is one that must be understood and followed, otherwise stores will automatically find themselves out of merchandise and consequently out of business.

Members of the journalism class of the high school and their instructor, Miss Dorothy Thompson, visited the Press office Tuesday morning to watch the Intertype in operation. Class members are Bobbie Jo Field, Genevieve Gonzales, Gloria Muller, Paul Mulcahy, Joe Benevento, Burt Reynolds, Joan Smith, Linda Cuciz, Alice Hedegard, Carol Weeks, Mable Allen, Dora Bernardasci, Mary Rajkovich, Don Smith, Ray Van Gorkom and Helen Rue.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Hostages" by Stefan Heym. Mr. Heym was born 29 years ago in Germany. In the brief interval between his schooling and the time when Hitler came into full power, he contributed to the leading democratic journals, and his writings were not overlooked by the Nazi. His father was taken as a hostage in his place in 1933. Stefan Heym was given a chance to escape and he went to Prague where he spent two years writing for the theater and various magazines. In 1935 he won a scholarship from the University of Chicago and he came to the United States where he has continued to fight for freedom, as a writer and as editor, for two years, of the German - language, anti-Nazi weekly. His father was released after six weeks in the hands of the Gestapo. He returned to his home and later committed suicide.

After reading the above paragraph it is not at all difficult to see where the author procured his material for "Hostages." One reviewer remarked "Read it and you will be absolutely sure just why we are at war."

The scene of the crime is Czechoslovakia and the "Hostages" are natives of Prague. To begin the story, a German officer was reported missing. He was last seen in a beer tavern, very drunk. Five of the guests of the tavern were arrested as suspects of the crime of murder; each representing a different station in social and economic life. Commissioner Reinhardt, the SS German officer in charge of prosecuting the hostages, presents a quirk of the demon mind that has escaped me in any other article or book.

It is my honest opinion that no reviewer can possibly give any clear idea of the depth, the reality, the truthfulness of what Stefan Heym has put into this story. It is not a book for those who wish to keep away from stories about the war. On the other hand, no one can read it without profiting by so doing. The author's aptness in portraying realities makes you cringe and hold your breath.

Macaroni Batting For Meat

By BETTY BARCLAY

Now that approximately two hundred million North Americans are discarding their usual mode of living as food shortages appear almost overnight, we should realize that in the game of life, the pinch hitter is just as important as in baseball.

There's a meat shortage—or our favorite cuts are far too expensive for our purses. It looks to us as though the game is lost unless we can have our Tuesday sirloin or our Wednesday loin of pork.

Call in your pinch hitter, Mr. Macaroni, his brother Spaghetti, or their team-mate—Noodles. The diet problem has two strikes on it, the minute one of these husky batters steps to the plate.

Oh, I realize that beef and pork are primarily protein foods, while macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles are super-rich in carbohydrates and are usually regarded as the "energy trio." But you must remember that each member of this "energy trio" is also rich in proteins and that with the aid of comparatively small quantities of the cheaper meat cuts, or left-over meats, delicious and nourishing one-dish meals may be prepared. Thus macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles are ideal pinch hitters in this game of war, shortages, and nerves.

Compare the cost per pound of your favorite meat, with the cost of a pound of macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles. Then glance over the following recipes and see how far this "energy food" will stretch when used with fresh or left-over meats, or chicken and those necessary vegetables. Then you will realize why it is possible for Macaroni to bat for Meat in today's food game which must be won by the Nutrition League.

Thrifty Macaroni Treat
Patriotic American housewives waste no meat. Here's a favorite way to combine left-over meats in a tasty, economical and generally popular dish:
½ lb. elbow macaroni
Buttered bread crumbs
1½ cups ground left-over meats
Pepper and salt
Grind meat and add seasoning.

KENNETH ROBISON REPORTS FOR DUTY IN ARMY THIS MONTH

Kenneth Robison of Sunny-oaks avenue, who has been field executive of the Santa Clara council of Boy Scouts for the past three years, reports to the army for duty on the fifteenth of this month.

W. E. (Ted) Robison (no relation) is the newly appointed assistant executive to succeed Kenneth.

The new leader has made Scouting his life work, and has held much the same position at Huntington Park, for the San Antonio council, later at Riverside. His last field was in Los Angeles as district executive of the harbor area.

The Robison family, consisting of himself, his wife, and two small daughters, will live in the former Walton home in the Cambrian district.

The candy pull that the Tanda Campfire Girls held came along very nicely. Each girl brought a cup of sugar and a piece of butter. Mrs. Swane, director, went to the grammar school cafeteria and made the taffy while the girls held their meeting. When Mrs. Swane came back the girls greased their hands while the taffy was cooling. Then the girls went outside and pulled it. The taffy that each girl pulled she had to take home.

Cook macaroni in 1 quart of water or stock that is boiling when macaroni is added. Stir until all liquid is absorbed. Season macaroni and meat to taste.

Make a layer of half the macaroni in bottom of a shallow, greased baking dish; then add a layer of meat and finish with the rest of the macaroni for the top layer. Cover with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven until crumbs are brown. Makes 4 good servings. Cost is almost insignificant.

Spaghetti-Chicken Chop Suey
Here's a United Nations' dish that warrants popular acceptance in war or in peace:

½ lb. spaghetti
1 cup mushrooms, chopped
1 cup cooked chicken, minced
1 Bermuda onion, minced
1 cup celery, finely shredded
1 cup chicken stock or liquid

Cook spaghetti in 1½ quarts of boiling salted water. Drain, but save surplus liquid. Keep spaghetti hot. Add to the surplus liquid, the chicken stock, shredded celery, minced onion, chopped mushrooms and minced cooked chicken. Cook slowly till mixture becomes "creamy." Place hot spaghetti on platter, making a nest in center into which is poured the hot meat-vegetable mixture. Season all with salt and pepper, and sprinkle with Soy Sauce. Makes 4 generous servings. Cooked veal or other left-over meats may be substituted for the chicken if desired.

Noodle-Egg Pies
Here's a meat-saver that is long on flavor and nourishment, but short on cost:
2 heaping cups boiled egg noodles
6 eggs

Cream, butter, salt and pepper. Boil egg noodles in a small quantity of water so that when done all liquid will be absorbed. Grease large muffin pan and fill the cups with egg noodles; form into a nest with noodles extending above the rim. Into each nest break an egg. Place on egg a tablespoon of cream, a dab of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Bake in hot oven, (400 degrees) until eggs are set.

GOING AWAY PARTY GIVEN FOR PAUL BECKER

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murdock were dinner hosts last Sunday at a "going away" party for Paul Becker who is awaiting an early call for service with Uncle Sam.

Decorations were in miniature military style and a small toy army truck contained simple gifts needed by a service man.

Guests for the occasion were Messrs. and Mesdames Paul Becker, Budd Levenberg, Ethan Lanphear, Eugene Hodges, Lowell Benson, Ray Mathis and Walter Silberbauer, all of Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mingrone of San Jose. Others were Axel Granstrom of Los Gatos, Mack and Jean Ross and Horace Miller of San Jose.

Having graduated from the primary flying school at Coleman, Texas, Cadet Walter Reynold Keesling, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Keesling has completed the first and probably the most difficult part of his flight training. He now moves to a basic flying school where he will learn to handel faster and more powerful ship and on completion of this course is prepared for the final phase of training in an advanced where he will be awarded the coveted wings of the Army Air Corps.

Head of Family Exemption

A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, is entitled to a personal exemption of $1200 for the year if he can qualify as head of a family. A head of family is "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

The term "in one household" ordinarily means under one roof, but if a father is absent on business or a child or other dependent is away at school, or on a visit, the common home being maintained, the head of family exemption would still apply. Where a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding house while he lives elsewhere, the additional exemption may still apply. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family irrespective of the question of support.

The term "closely connected by blood relationship" applies to a person's progenitors and lineal descendants, to his brothers or sisters, whether by the whole or half blood, and to his uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces. Irrespective of any legal obligation of the taxpayer to support such dependent relatives, a moral obligation to do so exists, and if the individual is actually supporting and maintaining in one household relatives of this degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected by marriage" with his step-sisters and stepbrothers, but whether his right to exercise family control and provide for these individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same considerations

Club Meeting

Country Woman's club which was celebrating its 38th birthday. Mrs. Milton Francis read a history of the 50-year-old We and Our Neighbors club.

Soloist of the afternoon was Mrs. H. W. Rich who sang the following songs accompanied by Mrs. D. A. Sanders: "The Bubble" by Rudolph Friml; "All For You" by Bertrand Brown; "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," by John Openshaw; "Just a Wearyin' For You" by Carrie Jacobs Bond; and "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life" by Victor Herbert.

On the piano there was an arrangement of camellias, heather, and snowdrops while daphne was used to decorate the mantle. On the platform was a large basket of torch lilies.

The tea table was set with an ecru lace cloth and an arrangement of pretty spring flowers. White tapers in silver candelabra completed the table appointments.

Presiding at the tea table were Miss Ruby Howes, president of We and Our Neighbors club, and Mrs. E. I. Price, first president of the Country Woman's club.

Mrs. C. B. Field was chairman of the day. Assisting her were Mrs. M. J. Palmer, Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, Mrs. Charles Hancock, Mrs. Ralph Hyde, and Mrs. Bertha Barron.

apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law and sister-in-law. First cousins by blood, and cousins of lesser degree, are not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship," as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain and support in his home a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of a family if the ward was not connected with him by relationship of blood, marriage, or adoption; nor is a taxpayer entitled to exemption as head of a family by virtue of maintenance and support of a child not legally adopted.

REMEMBER NATURAL GAS IS A WAR MATERIAL • USE IT WISELY

How to Save Money Save Heat Save Fuel

The saving of Natural Gas is very important today. War industries going full blast are using an increasing amount of this fuel. It takes a huge amount of Natural Gas to heat homes, to cook and to heat water. There will be enough if each user will save fuel by eliminating waste heat.

Here Are Ten Heat-Saving Suggestions:

1. Check Heat Leaks at Windows. If there is a stream of cold air leaking through or around a window, plug that leak. As temporary weather stripping insert folded wrapping paper or newspaper between the window sash and window frame.
2. Close Bedroom Door at Night. If you open bedroom windows at night keep the bedroom door closed. Place a rug against the bottom of the door. There is no need to check the rest of the house during sleeping hours.
3. Close Fireplace Damper. If you have a furnace and fireplace, close the damper when the fireplace is not in use. More furnace heat is sucked up a chimney than is produced by a grate fire.
4. Close Garage Doors Under House. If your garage is under the house keep garage doors closed. Open garages scoop in cold air and chill floors unnecessarily.
5. Overheating your House is NOT Healthful. Every degree of heat in your house over 65 degrees uses up from 2% to 6% more fuel. Keep comfortable, but do not overheat your rooms.
6. Do Not Use your Range as a Heater. Using a range oven as a heater is inefficient and shortens the range's life. Use your range for its one important job—cooking. Remember that these days a range may be hard to replace.
7. When the Sun Comes Out—Turn out your Heater. It is a good rule to keep lower heating temperature during the day when you are active about the house. Use no heat when the sun shines and outside temperature is 65 degrees.
8. Shut Off Unused Rooms. Turn off the heat in unused rooms and close the doors and you will have more heat for the other rooms.
9. Open and Close Outside Doors Promptly. A lot of cold air rushes in when outside doors are opened. Warn the children particularly about this. Do not stand and talk in an open door.
10. Keep Window Locks Fastened Tightly. Window catches, especially on French windows, work loose. Fasten these catches down hard. This forces the sash against the window frame and checks incoming draft.
